

Introduction

The Arkansas Crime Information Center is pleased to present the 27th annual edition of Crime in Arkansas. I am especially pleased to make this presentation because it is my first as the new director of ACIC.

This report is the culmination of months of hard work by the Uniform Crime Reporting staff of ACIC and is based on summary information submitted by 205 law enforcement agencies across the state under the Uniform Crime Reporting program. This information represents an overall tally of arrests and offenses known to and reported by law enforcement agencies. It does not include any data relating to prosecution, adjudication or correction, nor does it attempt to draw any conclusions on the causes of crime. We at the Arkansas Crime Information Center truly appreciate the assistance of the agencies participating in this endeavor and hold them in high regard for the work they do in fighting crime.

ACIC publishes Crime in Arkansas in hopes that it will serve as a valuable tool to those individuals and entities involved in the fight against crime. If you have any questions or comments concerning this publication, please contact the UCR Program Manager at the Arkansas Crime Information Center. You may also check the ACIC website at www.acic.org for an on-line version of this and other crime publications.

This report is dedicated to all law enforcement officers endeavoring to uphold the laws and serve the people of Arkansas. Without their support and cooperation, this publication and the resulting overview of crime would not be possible.

Description of Current Data

In 2002, the Arkansas Crime Information Center Supervisory Board mandated a change in crime data reporting; moving the state from summary reporting to incident based reporting. The implementation date was January 1, 2003.

The new reporting system increases the amount of crime data collected and requires electronic submission to ACIC. The complexity of this project required ACIC to provide a software solution to many smaller to medium sized departments for the collection of this data. Other departments, using their own records management systems, were required to update their systems to accept incident based data.

2002 and 2003 are transition years resulting in the statewide installation of new software; upgrading hardware, and on-going training. During this transition period many departments are unable to maintain dual reporting systems. This results in ACIC receiving less data than in the previous years. Therefore, the 2002 statistics are published with the understanding they may not have the reliability of previous data; however, this should improve as more agencies begin their incident based reporting. This was not an issue that was unexpected, but merely a result of the needed transition.

Uniform Crime Reporting

Background

The national Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) program began more than 70 years ago. In 1930, Congress authorized the FBI to collect crime statistics from local police departments. All information came from reports that law enforcement agencies routinely compile for their own efficient administration. From the beginning, the primary motive behind UCR was to provide law enforcement statistics for use by law enforcement agencies.

To gain an overall picture of crime on the national level, data is collected on certain offenses that become known to law enforcement. Of all offenses, eight were selected to make up what is called the "Crime Index". These eight offenses were selected because of their seriousness, frequency of occurrence, and likelihood of being reported to police. The eight are murder and non-negligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, theft, motor vehicle theft and arson.

For nationwide uniformity in the reporting of data, a set of standard definitions were written for specific criminal acts. This standardization was necessary to overcome the variation in definitions from state to state. Reporting agencies are required to submit their data in accordance with the UCR definition of offenses. Because of the variance in punishment for the same offenses in different states, it is not possible to distinguish between felony or misdemeanor crimes under the UCR program.

In the 1970's, the FBI transferred responsibility for data collection to state-operated UCR programs. Arkansas assumed this responsibility in 1974. With a state UCR program, data is more readily available for use by the state, and the FBI no longer collects data directly from individual law enforcement agencies within a state. Compiled information from all reporting agencies is forwarded by the state program to the national program. State programs also provide more direct and frequent contact with local agencies, assuring more completeness and quality of reported information.

Purposes of the Arkansas UCR Program

Data collected in the UCR program provides a picture of reported crime in Arkansas. While there are many purposes, the primary goals are:

- To collect, verify, and analyze information on crime reported to law enforcement agencies in Arkansas.
- To provide data back to law enforcement administrators for use in operational planning and assessments.
- To give an overview of crime, its magnitude and trends, and to provide this information to the Governor, the Legislature, and to the general public.
- To develop base data and statistics to improve the efficiency, effectiveness, and performance of the Arkansas criminal justice system.
- To provide the FBI with complete UCR data to include in the national crime reports.

Reporting Procedures

A good record-keeping system is necessary for the effective operation of any law enforcement agency. These record systems are the source of statistics on crime. Most of the data reported in Arkansas is by a "summary" reporting procedure. Law enforcement agencies are responsible for compiling their own crime figures and submitting them once a month to ACIC. ACIC provides the agencies with training in scoring and classifying of offenses and in procedures for reporting data.

On a monthly basis, law enforcement agencies submit a summary of the number of offenses made known to them during the month. This count is taken from the complaints received by the agency from victims, other sources or as discovered by officers. The number of "actual offenses known" are reported to ACIC without regard to whether anyone was arrested for the crime, any stolen property was recovered, or any other restrictive consideration. Law enforcement agencies also report the total number of these crimes which they clear by either arrest or exceptional means. To supplement the offense information, data is also reported on the value of property stolen and recovered, circumstances surrounding homicides, additional information concerning assaults on police officers, and other pertinent information. In addition to offense information, reports on the number of persons arrested on all criminal offenses are also collected. These reports provide age, sex and race information, with the adult and juvenile arrests separated. Names of the individuals arrested are not included in the UCR program.

Arkansas Crime Index

The Crime Index is used as a standardized measurement of crime. It is the figure most often publicized by the news media and is widely used to measure the level of crime in a given location. Many of the figures presented in this annual report indicate the volume, fluctuations and distribution of crime using the eight Crime Index offenses. The Crime Rate is one of the most quoted crime statistics and is based on the number of Index Crimes per 100,000 population.

The Crime Index offenses were selected for use as an "index", because of their serious nature, their frequency of occurrence and the reliability of reporting by citizens to law enforcement agencies. In viewing Crime Index figures, the reader should keep in mind that there is currently no way of determining the total number of actual crimes committed. The Crime Index shows only the instances of crime which came to the attention of law enforcement agencies.

Violent crime refers to events such as murder, rape, and assault that may result in personal injury to a person. Robbery is also considered a violent crime because it involves the use or threat of force against a person.

Property crimes are unlawful acts with the intent of gaining property, but do not involve the use of threat of force against an individual. Theft, burglary, motor vehicle theft, and arson are examples of property crimes.

In UCR, an offense is considered to be cleared (solved) when at least one offender is arrested. The arrest of one person can clear several crimes or several persons may be arrested in the process of clearing one crime. Offenses may also be cleared by exceptional means when the offender commits suicide, makes a dying declaration, confesses while in custody or serving time for another crime, is prosecuted in another jurisdiction for the same offense, or when the victim refuses to prosecute or another jurisdiction refuses to extradite. When examining clearance data, keep in mind that not all crimes are cleared within the calendar year in which the offense occurs. Also note that the recovery of property stolen with regard to a specific offense does not, by itself, constitute a clearance for UCR purposes.

Data Comparisons and Limitations of UCR

While UCR has been the best source of crime statistics available, it has been subject to much criticism during its history. Some of these criticisms may be valid. However, the criticism is softened when it is remembered that the program was developed to furnish information primarily for use by law enforcement agencies.

The obvious tendency with a publication like the Crime in Arkansas is to make comparisons of data between jurisdictions, such as between agencies, or counties, or regions. Caution should be exercised in making comparisons, because of the great variety of factors which affect the amount and types of crime. Such factors are not taken into consideration in either raw data or crime rates. All crimes are considered "equal" in computing crime rates. For example, one theft affects a crime rate the same as one murder.

The Uniform Crime Reporting program measures offenses reported and persons arrested. Difficulty will arise if this distinction is not kept clearly in mind. Crime relates to events, but arrests relate to persons, and there is not a one-to-one correspondence. While UCR is the best information available, no claim is made that this represents "all crime".

Summary

The information in this annual report portrays the most accurate and realistic assessment available on the crime situation in Arkansas. ACIC is grateful for the participation of the law enforcement agencies that contributed data each month, without which this publication would not be possible. Individuals using this data are again cautioned about drawing conclusions based on direct comparisons between agencies. Numerous factors affect the amount and type of crime from place to place. More valid use can be made of these figures by determining deviations from state averages or through comparisons with averages for similar population groups. It is important to remember that crime is a social problem, and therefore is a concern of the entire community. The efforts of law enforcement are limited to factors within their control.

Section 6

National Incident - Based Crime Reporting System

Overview

In 1985, the FBI introduced the National Incident-Based Crime Reporting System (NIBRS) to improve the statistical reporting and analysis capabilities of the law enforcement community. The specifications for NIBRS are the result of a collaborative effort between the FBI and local, state, and national criminal justice agencies and professional organizations. To ensure that it fulfills its purpose, NIBRS has adopted the following goals:

1. To enhance the quantity, quality, and timeliness of crime statistical data collected by the law enforcement community.
2. To improve the methodology used for compiling, analyzing, auditing, and publishing the collected crime data.

The most prominent difference between Summary reporting and NIBRS is the degree of detail in reporting. In IBR systems, law enforcement agencies maintain a database of the details of each single crime occurrence that are reported to them. Depending upon the design of the particular system, the information collected can include details about the incident location, offense(s), offender(s), victim(s), property, and arrestee(s). In UCR reporting, most local law enforcement agencies provide a monthly summary of offense and arrest counts for certain offense categories to their state UCR systems, which are in turn reported to the FBI.

Collection Method

NIBRS data are designed to be generated as a by-product of local, state, and federal automated records systems. Thus, an agency can build a system to suit its own needs, including any collection/storage of information required for administrative and operational purposes, in addition to reporting data required by NIBRS to the national UCR Program. NIBRS collects data on each single incident and arrest within 22 offense categories made up of 46 specific crimes called Group A Offenses. For each of the offenses coming to the attention of law enforcement, specified types of facts about each crime are collected. In addition to the Group A Offenses, there are 11 Group B Offense categories for which only arrest data are reported.

The following offense categories, known as Group A Offenses, are those for which extensive crime data are collected in NIBRS:

1. Arson
2. Assault Offenses-Aggravated Assault, Simple Assault, Intimidation
3. Bribery
4. Burglary/Breaking and Entering
5. Counterfeiting/Forgery
6. Destruction/Damage/Vandalism of Property
7. Drug/Narcotic Offenses-Drug/Narcotic Violations, Drug Equipment Violations
8. Embezzlement
9. Extortion/Blackmail
10. Fraud Offenses-False Pretenses/Swindle/Confidence Game, Credit Card/Automatic Teller Machine Fraud, Impersonation, Welfare Fraud, Wire Fraud
11. Gambling Offenses-Betting/Wagering, Operating/Promoting/Assisting Gambling, Gambling Equipment Violations, Sports Tampering

12. Homicide Offenses-Murder and Nonnegligent Manslaughter, Negligent Manslaughter, Justifiable Homicide
13. Kidnapping/Abduction
14. Larceny/Theft Offenses-Pocket Picking, Purse Snatching, Shoplifting, Theft from Building, Theft from Coin-Operated Machine or Device, Theft from Motor Vehicle, Theft of Motor Vehicle Parts or Accessories, All Other Larceny
15. Motor Vehicle Theft
16. Pornography/Obscene Material
17. Prostitution Offenses-Prostitution, Assisting or Promoting Prostitution
18. Robbery
19. Sex Offenses, Forcible-Forcible Rape, Forcible Sodomy, Sexual Assault with an Object, Forcible Fondling
20. Sex Offenses, Nonforcible-Incest, Statutory Rape
21. Stolen Property Offenses (Receiving, etc.)
22. Weapon Law Violations

The following eleven additional offense categories, known as Group B Offenses, are those for which only arrest data are reported.

1. Bad Checks
2. Curfew/Loitering/Vagrancy Violations
3. Disorderly Conduct
4. Driving Under the Influence
5. Drunkenness
6. Family Offenses, Nonviolent
7. Liquor Law Violations
8. Peeping Tom
9. Runaway
10. Trespass of Real Property
11. All Other Offenses

Advantages

Law enforcement is a public service and requires a full accounting from an agency's commissioner, chief, or director for the administration of that agency and the status of public safety within its jurisdiction. Full participation in NIBRS will provide statistics to enable a law enforcement agency to fulfill this responsibility. NIBRS has the capability of furnishing information on nearly every major criminal justice issue facing law enforcement today, including terrorism, white collar crime, weapons offenses, missing children where criminality is involved, drug/narcotics offenses, drug involvement in all offenses, hate crimes, spouse abuse, abuse of the elderly, child abuse, domestic violence, juvenile crime/gangs, parental kidnapping, organized crime, pornography/child pornography, driving under the influence, and alcohol-related offenses. The data will be available from all levels of law enforcement-federal, state, and local-aggregated at the level and in the manner which best meets the needs of the data user. Through NIBRS, legislators, municipal planners/administrators, academicians, penologists, sociologists, and the general public will have access to more detailed and accurate crime information than the summary system can provide.

The benefits of incident-based reporting include:

- Data collection is not restricted to a limited number of offense categories.
- Offense definitions can meet local, state, and national reporting needs.
- Detail on individual crime incidents (offenses, offenders, victims, property, and arrests) can be collected and analyzed.
- Arrests and clearances can be linked to specific incidents or offenses.

- All offenses in an incident can be recorded and counted, unlike the current situation with the hierarchy rule in the FBI Uniform Crime Reports.
- Additional crime scoring categories, such as Crimes Against Society, can be created.
- Distinctions can be made between attempted and completed crimes.
- Linkages can be established between variables for examining interrelationships between offenses, offenders, victims, property, and arrestees.
- Detailed crime analyses can be made within and across law enforcement jurisdictions.
- Regional law enforcement agencies can share information easily.
- Strategic and tactical crime analyses can be made at the local and regional levels.

NIBRS in Arkansas

As of September 2002, 23 states were certified by the FBI as NIBRS compliant, 18 states were engaged in testing with the FBI, and 10 states were in the developmental phase. Within each state, the number of reporting agencies varies. Law enforcement agencies with an existing incident-based reporting system can modify their systems to satisfy NIBRS requirements. Alternatively, agencies that implement NIBRS can expand its capabilities to meet internal agency requirements and still be NIBRS compliant.

Arkansas was the 19th state to be NIBRS certified. Last year, the ACIC Supervisory Board determined that crime statistics must be reported according to NIBRS standards in Arkansas beginning no later than January, 2003. In an effort to provide assistance to local agencies, a NIBRS Users' Group has been established. The purpose of this group is to bring local officials together to discuss common problems and issues, as well as to assist those agencies that are in the transition stage of moving from summary UCR reporting to NIBRS reporting.

To help coordinate this inter-agency sharing of ideas, a more formal NIBRS Steering Committee was established which include the following members:

Chief Larry James (Co-Chair)
University of Central Arkansas Police Department

Asst. Chief Rick Hoyt (Co-Chair)
Fayetteville Police Department

Joey Potratz
